

J&J FAULTY HIP IMPLANT COMPENSATION

Age, risk factor may also be considered

BASED ON THE SLABS, THE AMOUNT COULD VARY FROM ₹3 MILLION TO AS MUCH AS ₹12 MILLION

VEENA MANI
New Delhi, 29 November

Patients affected by multinational medical devices major Johnson and Johnson's (J&J) 'faulty' ASR hip implants finally have reason to cheer as the health ministry has approved the expert committee's formula for compensation.

The expert committee has proposed that age and risk factor from the disability caused will be considered for compensation, over and above the base amount. The patients will also be given ₹1 million for non-pecuniary damages.

An expert committee was constituted by the ministry under the chairmanship of Arun Kumar Agarwal, former dean and professor of ENT, Maulana Azad Medical College (New Delhi), to examine the issues related to faulty ASR hip implants.

The committee, after detailed examination of the issue, submitted its report, along with its final recommendation. The report was accepted by the Centre.

According to the government's decision, the base will be multiplied by the score given for the risk and age factor, divided by 99.37, with ₹1 million added to it. Disability caused has been put in four slabs and compensation amount may vary from ₹3 million to over ₹12 million.

The hip implants manufactured by J&J's wholly-owned subsidiary DePuy International were found to be faulty, and several instances of revision surgeries were reported in India and across the globe.

The health ministry has approved the expert committee's formula for compensation to those affected by J&J 'faulty' ASR hip implants

This comes at a time when J&J has chalked out a plan to provide compensation to these patients in India.

The new programme to be introduced by the company proposes to support patients who were implanted in India with its ASR hip implant between June 2004 and August 2010 and provide reimbursement, if the revision surgery and tests took place within 15 years from the date of the primary hip replacement surgery. Close to 4,700 surgeries using these implants were done in the country. Subsequently, these implants were withdrawn.

At first, the committee on the matter had recommended compensation to affected patients. The base compensation was recommended to be ₹2 million, with an amount in excess to be based on the disability caused.

The government had written to DePuy Medical asking them to provide compensation till 2025.

The Committee that submitted its report to the health ministry had noted that the company has been negligent and therefore should compensate patients. This committee was set up in 2017 by the health ministry to review the matter.

In February this year, the committee submitted its report. These complaints could be dated prior to 2010.

Sebi earmarks ₹5 billion to tackle market manipulators

SHRIMI CHOUDHARY
Mumbai, 29 November

To tighten the noose around market manipulators, the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has earmarked ₹5 billion for upgrading its surveillance and network monitoring systems.

The markets regulator is planning to rope in an information technology (IT) provider for implementing an integrated market surveillance system (IMSS) through a centralised monitoring system that will operate round the clock.

The IT provider will have to set up entirely new systems and carry out exhaustive data analysis. The IT vendor will be initially contracted with Sebi for a period of three years.

A regulatory source confirmed the information. However, an email sent to Sebi seeking official response remained unanswered. According to the source, the latest technology is aimed at tackling growing and new-age threats to the stock market ecosystem.

"Improvisation and strengthening of surveillance is required as integration of commodity and equity exchanges has posed new challenges," said the regulatory source.

The new technology will also help remotely monitor the surveillance system and provide real-time status reports. This will help mitigate cyber security threats and detect the cause for technical glitches as and when it appears.

The new software will be equipped to operate during a period of high volatility or during big events, such as elections. It will work as an oversight system and keep tabs on Sebi's risk management system, especially payment and settlement of trades.

The software will be designed to automatically collect data from stock exchanges and depositories. It will also be capable of identifying manipulation and raising alerts accordingly.

Noose tightens around medical devices importers

SOHINI DAS
Mumbai, 29 November

After the Johnson & Johnson (J&J) faulty artificial hip implant controversy, the government is plugging loopholes in the Medical Devices Rules (MDR) 2017 to ensure action against the players who violate regulations.

In its meeting on Thursday, the Drug Technical Advisory Board (DTAB) passed a proposal to include a provision in the MDR for cancellation and suspension of import licence of the medical devices in case of non-compliance with the regulatory provisions.

India imports around 80 per cent of its medical devices and a fourth of that comes from the

US. The overall medical devices market in India is estimated to be ₹640 billion.

The DTAB also passed a proposal to include provisions for compensation in case of injury or death due to any medical device found malfunctioning, unsafe or not in compliance with the conditions of the licence.

The DTAB is the apex drug advisory body in the country that advises the government on matters related to public health.

A senior government official confirmed the same. The proposals, now approved by the DTAB, would move to the ministry of health (MoH) and take a while before these are implemented.

PLUGGING LOOPHOLES

J&J row prompts DTAB to tweak rules to ensure action against violators

- DTAB passes a proposal to include provision to pay compensation for faulty devices
- It also clears a plan to cancel or suspend licence of importers in case they violate regulations
- Amendments to be made to Indian Medical Devices Rules '17

- Medical Devices Rules 2017 come under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act
- Proposal to be sent to MoH for deliberation and approval
- Industry feels a separate Act to regulate medical devices is required

Control Organisation (CDSCO) regulates the medical devices industry under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, which was meant for pharmaceutical products. The government eventually brought in MDR 2017 that comes under the existing Act.

"There was no provision under the MDR 2017 for suspension and cancellation of import licence of medical devices in case of non-compliance with regulatory provisions. Therefore, it was proposed to add a provision related to the same," said a source.

The Central Licensing Authority would give an opportunity to the licensee to show cause as to why a cancellation or suspension order should not be passed when any licensee is found to contravene any provision of the Act and MDR 2017.

The proposal also says the orders of suspension issued or revoked, or cancellation of license shall be duly published on the websites concerned of the Central Licensing Authority.

As for the proposal to amend the rules to include provision to provide compensation to those affected patients in case the medical device is found to be unsafe or malfunctioning, the DTAB recommended that the manufacturer or importer shall provide medical management or compensation or both to such person.

It also said the amount of compensation shall be determined in accordance with the formula as prescribed in the New Drugs and Clinical Trials Rules 2018.

Rajiv Nath, forum coordinator of Association of Indian Medical Device Industry (AIMED), said the government was trying to plug the loopholes in the medical devices rules after the recent spate of controversies around J&J.

He, however, felt the need of the hour was to have an entirely separate Act to regulate medical devices, and not make amendments to the existing one.
